Top Comments/ Suggestions from Participating NFL Players

- ~ Coordinate with shoe makers to see what surface/shoe combinations are the safest in terms of impact/ankles/ligaments etc.
- ~ Create a universal guideline for both grass & turf fields. Everything else is regulated and this should be as well. Some of the aforementioned fields are injuries waiting to happen. Having different types of cuts of grass introduces a lot of guess work for an equipment staff and players alike. I'm aware some cities have geographical issues that affect the field; perhaps stadiums with consistently bad reputations should have to look into other options.
- ~ Grass is probably preferred by most players, including myself. However, our game field is the worst I've ever witnessed and played on. Green sand does not do the job for me like it does on television. I believe our field is extremely dangerous, especially later in the season. Something should be done!
- ~ I feel that a grass field that is very well maintained is the best field to play on. The best grass field I have ever been on is on Texas A & M University. The artificial infilled field always starts out great like our field was the first year we put it in. But, after 2 years of soccer games and concerts, the field is a mess. The maintenance of the field is not good enough and I place responsibility on the owner.
- ~ Those franchises who cannot grow grass in November and December should re-sod more frequently or switch to synthetic. Overall the quality of the fields have improved dramatically however!
- ~ No more games in London! It's awful!
- ~ No more grass fields like Pittsburgh. It is the worst!
- ~ If a cow cannot eat it, we shouldn't be playing on it.
