

Haying Champs Clear Field For Pro Football Champs

Officials of City Stadium in Green Bay, Wisconsin, had a real clean-up problem on their hands before the big world's championship pro football game, held on Sunday, Dec. 31. The field was covered with a huge tarp -- on top of this was piled a layer of straw which was covered with a blanket of snow.

But IH dealer Bernard Kane of Denmark, Wis., came to the rescue with a No. 15 hay rake and No. 46 baler, each powered by International tractors, which cleaned up the mess of snow and straw in short order.

To capitalize on the publicity value of this project, IH zone manager Mel Manthe gave up a week of his vacation in organizing all the details of the clean-up. A special film and tape report of the event was prepared, with veteran star defensive tackle Dave "Hawg" Hanner of the world champion Green Bay Packers operating the IH equipment.

This film and tape were used in a special "Making Hay in the Snow" show broadcast over station WBAY, Green Bay.

Dealer Kane also provided mountains of sandwiches and a big urn of hot coffee to all the field crew at City Stadium on the Sunday morning of the big pro game. This generous offer added greatly to the good will and publicity created by the unusual clean-up project.
